

SOLDIER BOYS SICK.

WHOLESALE POISONING OF THE MEN IN BLUE.

No Criminal Intent Believed—A Midnight Alarm Turns the Invalids Out—Investigations.

The regular and volunteer forces of the government ate supper last evening at the barracks about six o'clock. At ten minutes to nine Private C. Knutsen was found violently sick on his post at the Richards street gate of the Palace yard, and was carried to the barracks on a stretcher. By this time the men on duty at the barracks were dropping down in twos and threes and were immediately put to bed.

Dr. Rodgers was in attendance and did all in his power to relieve the men, who showed every symptom of arsenical poisoning. They were attacked with severe vomiting, accompanied with pains in the stomach, parched throat, and violent diarrhoea. By this morning those who were first and most severely attacked were very weak and are still unable to leave their beds, although out of danger. There are three men still down at the barracks, and six at the government building belonging to Company A.

Dr. Day was in attendance on company A, whose men seem to have been most severely stricken, but he was able to visit the barracks about midnight long enough to compare notes with Dr. Rodgers, after which he returned to the government building where he remained the greater portion of the night. By half past twelve o'clock 36 men were sick at the barracks out of 85, a dozen of whom were absent either on liberty or sick leave. Besides these, two of the Chinese waiters were taken so violently ill that they vomited blood. The other waiters and two Chinese cooks and helpers were not affected. At the government building 25 out of 69 men, belonging to company A, were taken down about nine o'clock, some of whom were sick all night. This morning six of the men were unable to report for duty and are still in bed.

Dr. Rodgers states that the poison is an irritant and that the symptoms may be produced by arsenical poisoning or the use of deleterious food. "However," says the doctor, "no theory which explains all the details has yet been advanced; and those which have been put forward have failed almost as soon as compared with the facts thus far developed." The officers at the barracks are now taking individual statements of the men, which will contain statements as to the food eaten, the time of eating, and the time sickness began, but little light has thus far been thrown upon the matter.

Seventeen out of the twenty-one members of the Hawaiian Band were taken sick during the evening, and have not reported for duty as yet. It is the custom for the band to play at the barracks every Tuesday afternoon and the men generally eat supper there before going home. They did so yesterday evening, and during the night all except Prof. Berger and three men were taken down. Prof. Berger has furnished a list which shows that he and the four well men partook of a portion of everything eaten by the seventeen sick men.

At a quarter to one o'clock this morning a telephone message was received at the barracks which declared that a squad of twenty armed men were in motion on Pensacola street and others were rallying. The long roll alarm was immediately sounded. The barracks was placed upon the defensive within three minutes, and all save half a dozen of the sickest men, went to their posts, some of them still vomiting and scarcely able to walk. The doors and windows were efficiently guarded, however, and an outpost under Lieutenant Coyne, was taken up in the long frame building belonging to the government, and at present occupied by a lot of native families.

The troops remained on guard over an hour, expecting an attack at any minute; but none came, and it was afterwards learned that the alarm had been caused by the rally of a squad of Captain Gunn's men, company B volunteers, to relieve company A of guard duty at the government building. Company B remained on guard at that place from 2 to 6 o'clock this morning. When asked if they wished to have breakfast at the barracks before leaving, the men of company B raised a unanimous shout of "No, thank you; thanks, boys, we'll eat at Nolte's."

The Attorney-General's department has been moving rapidly in making an investigation of the affair, through it is hardly believed that any intentional poisoning has taken place. A thorough inquiry is being carried on at the barracks and all goods and supplies in the kitchens will be overhauled and analyzed if necessary.

Marshal Hitchcock has placed in the hands of Prof. A. B. Lyons government chemist, samples of the stomach contents from the sick men at the barracks and Government building. Prof. Lyons is making an analysis to-day and will probably send in a report as to the nature of the poison this afternoon.

A Row at a Funeral.

To-day, at one o'clock, when the funeral of the Chinaman who was poisoned by eating fish yesterday, arrived at the Pauoa Chinese cemetery, it was refused entrance to the grounds by J. M. Vivas and others who had fenced up a portion of the road, the land thus fenced in being leased by him. A big row ensued.

An officer was sent up, but was refused admittance and returned without forcing the gate, as he feared trouble. About half-past two o'clock Deputy Marshal Brown went to straighten the matter out and has not yet returned. Orders have been given by Vivas' attorney not to resist the Marshal.

THIRD CIRCUIT COURT.

Cases Tried At Kau, Hawaii, During The April Term.

The April term of the Third Circuit Court was held at Waiohinu, Kau, Hawaii, Judge S. L. Austin, presiding, and J. Alfred Magoon acting as deputy Attorney-General.

Kaini paid $100 fine and costs for selling liquor without a license. Kamakona and Kapeliela were fined for assault and battery. George Heleloa and Kawaha pleaded guilty to robbery in the second degree and were sentenced to one year's imprisonment. Kuluwaimaka and Lilia were sentenced to two and a half years and one year respectively for incest. John Gaspar was acquitted of selling liquor without a license.

In re the application of the Hawaii Agricultural Company for a division fence along the lands of Kalani, the award of the Fence Commission was set aside and declared void for not conforming to the law.

CHINESE PERMITS.

A Marked Decrease in the Number Wanted by Minors.

The Chinese Bureau of the Foreign office issued 67 return permits, under the new law, for Chinese on the steamer Gaelic which sailed yesterday.

It is a significant fact that only two applications for minor's permits were made for the Gaelic, whereas, under the old law, the number applied for generally ran from 100 to 150 per steamer. The law formerly allowed return permits to be issued to minors 14 years old; the present law has reduced the age to 10 years and under.

A large number of the minor's permits, formerly issued, were used for fraudulent purposes in China, where they were bought by brokers and sold to Chinese adults wishing to secure admission to the Hawaiian Islands.

NOT THE MAN.

A Premature Report About Wundenberg's Appointment.

The report that Mr. Wundenberg will receive the appointment of Collector General of Customs is denied at the government offices and by several of his intimate friends. Another gentleman whose name will not be given out to day, is to be installed in the office. A member of the Provisional government tells the STAR that at least six men have refused the Collector Generalship and that the post seems to have gone begging among such persons as have the training and capacity to fill it.

What They Eat.

The troops at the barracks certainly live well as the following requisite for April 12th, which is an average of those drawn, will show: Butter, 12 ox cheeks, 55 pounds steak, 45 pounds roast beef, 50 pounds mutton, 50 pounds stew beef, 2 live, 80 loaves of bread, vegetables, etc. This includes the food furnished the regulars and all the present volunteer guards.

Quick Work.

Yesterday, at noon, an alarm drill was held at the barracks. The building was manned, the troops were ready to march, and the company was recalled and dismissed within 47 seconds from the time the first note of alarm was sounded.

Volcano Visitors.

The W. G. Hall is discharging her cargo—an unusually large one—at the Inter-Island Company's wharf, preparatory to clearing for a fast run Friday with a large number of passengers, many of them tourists, bent on doing the Volcano.

Owing to Rough Weather.

The James McKee due this morning from Kapaa failed to put in an appearance, owing probably to the rough weather.

Fresh Water Americans.

EDITOR STAR:—Far away in the sylvan shades of New York city there is a set of men who "amuse themselves" by editing newspapers. Le roi s'amuse, we know, i. e., kings do much the same thing. These men, be they young, or be they old, we know not; have not mingled much in the storm and stress of life, any way, not of international life. Evidently they have not been far out of sight of land, save perhaps as guests of a yacht club. If they are any ways young, and can endure the vicissitudes of travel, we would recommend them to visit the Pacific coast, and possibly the stirring scenes of the Hawaiian Islands. They might then acquire a little of the sturdiness of frontier manhood, and perhaps a little patriotism.

One of the fond ideas cherished in those rural precincts is that all that is necessary to secure the peace and undisturbed happiness of semi-American communities like Honolulu, is for a magisterial hand to be waved at Washington commanding neutrality. All the world thereupon will hear and obey. A steam-launch, with an admiral in it, would suit their ideas of a navy. Excepting, perhaps, for the purpose of a naval review where, they must confess, a few ships come handy and are very pretty you know; very pretty sight, very, very.

Now America has an outside, as well as an inside. Sympathy with Americans outside is not jingoism; it is hearty genuine manhood, and may there be more of it. There is more of it, and without tramping on any vested rights that are worth anything, without taking a foot of land that really belongs to the reputed owner, without deducting a cent from the needed wage of the earnest toiler, it can go forth on a world-benefit mission. But it must have tangible, solid means of manifestation, for the era of force is not over, and perhaps will not be for many generations to come.

CLEAN UP THE TOWN.

OTHERWISE THERE MAY BE A CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

The Chinese Quarter, the Water Supply and the Quarantine Station Need Attention.

The spread of the cholera in Europe and the prospect that it will find its way to the United States has caused the medical fraternity of this city some uneasiness. Physicians say that, if the disease should come to the Hawaiian Islands, the lack of sanitation here would make its progress rapid and its effects disastrous.

The lack of a sewerage system of any sort and the filthy condition of Honolulu has been discussed over and again, and hardly a meeting of the sanitary board occurs without the matter of cesspools, reeking with disease germs and in the very heart of the city being discussed. So too, the total lack of sewerage system and the inadequacy of the water supply comes in for sharp and suggestive comment.

That portion of the city forming the sites for the Chinese wash houses and the Chinese theater, a considerable basin in the Nuuanu Valley, is one huge cesspool filled with filth of every describable character—a fit breeding ground for fever and a standing menace to public health and public decency; while in case of the introduction of cholera it would become a radiator for contagion, a permanent hot bed for the breeding of bacteria.

This subject was freely discussed last fall by the advisory board of physicians created from among the medical fraternity as an adjunct to the board of health, as was the quarantine station which is also open to critical comment. The advisory board made careful investigation of every subject relating to sanitation and issued a voluminous report, but while the conclusions were logical nothing has been done toward carrying out the recommendations made. The board charges this to lack of funds.

In the report of this commission to the sanitary board attention is called to the Nuuanu valley cesspool and the quarantine station particularly. The first is condemned, and it is insisted that the buildings be removed and the swamp be filled in with solid matter. In regard to the character of the city's water supply, the commission called attention to the fact that the open reservoirs from which Honolulu receives its drinking and domestic purposes, give no security against the defilement of the water.

This report was dated Oct. 7 last and had the effect of securing an appropriation of $50,000 from the government to procure an artesian water supply for this city, but the money is yet held in abeyance.

A STAR reporter interviewed several prominent physicians, and members of the board of public health regarding this subject and all were of the opinion that something must be done and that immediately. Mr. Dayton was the least disturbed of any of the gentlemen visited, but he was not satisfied with the sanitary conditions here, and urged the extending of the water supply and the re-arrangement of the quarantine system. Mr. Dayton believed that the trade winds were an effective barrier to the introduction of cholera, but that theory was effectually knocked out by the charts of these winds shown in "Ocean Meteorology," by Geo. Findlay, F. R. G. S. Besides Honolulu is on the extreme northern boundary of the north-east trades.

Dr. Emerson who was President of the board of public health for two years and has written several valuable papers on these subjects believes Honolulu would not escape the scourge in case of its introduction to America, while the disease if it did gain a foothold would become a pestilence that could not be readily handled here with our lack of facilities. Dr. Andrews gave the reporter some valuable information as to the characteristics of cholera and condemned the sanitary system here as at the quarantine station, bearing out Dr. Emerson in his report of the miserable condition of that island and of the buildings the patients are forced to occupy. Dr. McGrew coincided with these gentlemen and reiterated the sentiments expressed and the conditions found as reported by the "Advisory Commission" of which he was a member.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

The iron bark Andrew Welsh, will go on the Marine Railway to-morrow. Charles L. Carter is trying to induce negroes to emigrate to these islands.

The Australia is due to leave San Francisco to-day for this port.

The W. G. Hall brought 15 cabin and 40 deck passengers with her yesterday evening.

The Red, White and Blue league will hold a meeting at the old Armory, on Queen street this evening.

There is nothing in or out by either the Wilder or the Inter-Island line of steamers to-day, and nothing in port except the Hall.

The American bark Amy Turner from New York to Honolulu with merchandise consigned to C. Brewer & Co., was spoken Feb. 24, in 3 N lat. 27 W lon.

A number of friends were entertained yesterday by the officers of the flagship Mohican by a characteristic "at home." Among the guests were President and Mrs. Dole.

L. Ahlo's horse ran away with a brake on the Palama way last Sunday afternoon, and came near running into the family carriage of Mr. C. A. Brown, missing it only by a space. Mrs. Brown, who was driving, was warned to get out of the way by Hack Inspector Sam Macy, or her carriage would have been demolished.

A Day's Outing.

Mrs. B. F. Dillingham and a party of seventeen ladies entertained Mrs. Blount to-day at Ewa plantation.

REMINISCENT.

History of the Old Building that Gertz Lately Occupied.

The demolition of the two story wooden building on Fort street, to give place to the proposed safe deposit structure mentioned in the STAR a few days since, leaves but three of the old class buildings remaining on this thoroughfare, from the water front to above Hotel street, a distance of six blocks.

Though not an "ancient landmark" it nevertheless filled a niche in what may be termed the social side of Honolulu business life as to deserve more than the brief paragraph so far given it.

This building was constructed by the late Christopher Lewers in the latter part of 1859, and before completion was leased to Edw. Burgess (famously known as "Ned" Burgess) for a billiard hall, and was the first billiard parlor in the islands without a "bar" attraction, which temperance feature it maintained for some time. The establishment opened with considerable eclat by a ball Feb. 1st, 1860, and merited a four or five line paragraph in the next morning's Advertiser.

"Burgess' Hall," as the Advertiser termed it, was provided with three tables, situate in the L that ran along an alley mauka side between it and Lewers & Dickson's store lot. Some months later this L had a counterpart erected and a ten-pin alley was added to its attractions for evening recreation, and here gathered many of the merchants, professionals and clerks of Honolulu and the captains and officers of vessels in port. Some of our older residents will recall the vigorous exercise in the effort to excel! Carol in his "ten strikes" or in the more scientific game of "cocked hat."

In the former game J. L. Dwyer and the late J. O. Dominis used to be considered adepts, while in the latter game the late Dr. E. Hoffmann led in supremacy. Of those who used to occasionally exercise in either one or the other department, many have "passed over the river," and of the successive proprietors all but one are gone.

Shortly after Mr. F. Horn established here in business, at the corner of King and Mauna Kea sts., Mr. Burgess assigned a portion of the front building for the sale of fine pastries and island fruit preserves prepared by Mr. Horn. This was followed by the addition of a light refreshment room, with coffee and oyster stews a specialty, as used to be vouchered for by "Kentuck." Every thing that Burgess undertook was done up in first class style. The fittings and furnishings showed individuality and artistic taste. Doubtless a number of our people can recall his sign (the work I believe of his brother George) which read "Billiard Room" to persons coming down the street, "E Burgess" as they got in front, and "Bowling Alley" from below. It was not only a novelty in sign work at the time, but was rich in finish. Its like has never been reproduced here.

At this period of Honolulu's history they were no Library and Reading Room, or Y. M. C. A. attractions, or provisions for the after-business hours of young men, yet the clamor of the certain would be benefactors at others' expense for the throwing open of our homes to the young men of the city was then unheard of.

After a few years existence, of the character as shown above, the "bar" feature was added to the house and it became known as the "Bank Exchange." Capt. H. S. Howland succeeded Burgess in the latter part of 1866, and he in turn was succeeded by Jas. Leuzada whose interest reverted again to Burgess in 1869 and at the latter's death the following year Messrs Siders and Clunie became its proprietors. For a number of years past the premises has been occupied by Mr. C. Gertz as a shoe store. Shortly following his occupancy the late Capt. L. Marchant fitted up the makai portion of the front as a cigar stand, and in the odd moments of waiting for customers his young helper Henry Grube, used to sit and amuse himself by engraving and small carvings, eventually developing a taste and aptness for this line of work that secured for him, at the hands of the reform government in 1887, an apprenticeship in one of the first engraving establishments in Boston, from which he is now returning home, with honor it is said, to his instructors, his country and himself.

Mr. Smith's Dinner.

The official dinner given by Attorney General W. O. Smith last evening brought together a distinguished company. There were present, besides Commissioner Blount and Minister Stevens, President Dole, Admiral Skerrett, Charles Nordhoff, Vice-President Damon, Chief Justice Judd, Dr. W. S. Bowen, Prof. W. D. Alexander, Hon. Wm. C. Wilder and Minister King. The menu was elaborate.

The Supreme Court.

In the matter of the application of Antonio F. Sereno, for a writ of habeas corpus against Judge Kaleo of Hana, Maui, it was held that the respondent had shown sufficient reasons for refusing to grant the appeal. The complaint was dismissed.

In the case of Talula Hayselden vs Wahineaea, the verdict was set aside and new trial ordered. The exceptions were sustained.

In Judge Foster's Court.

Moke Wahiaki, charged with stealing three quilts, was remanded in the Police Court until April 26th pending decision as to title in an action now before the Probate Court.

Ah Chow was fined $50 and costs for smoking opium.

Tom Sing and Ah Chuck are on trial this p. m. for selling liquors without a license.
